

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

THE WORK OF THE NEW YORK DESIGNING COMPANY.

THE HALF-TONES published on this page, are selected from the stock of The New York Designing Company, and are direct reproductions from the water color drawings. The remarkable features in this work throughout, are the care and elaboration with which every design is worked out; the practical as well as the artistic skill displayed, making them thoroughly useful to the draper and decorator, as well as objects of artistic beauty; and the remarkably cheap price at which they are placed on the market. When one bears in mind that artistic work of this quality brings a high price, the commercial value of these designs is very apparent. It is apparent at the first glance that these designs are not the work of mere amateurs. The Company have as yet opened but the two departments of drapery and decoration, but each department is in the hands of a competent designer in his special line. Other departments will be opened as soon as they are in position to handle them, and the demand for them is apparent. For full particulars as to the field this Company propose to cover, and their business methods, we refer the reader to their advertisement.

ONE OF A SERIES OF DRAPERY DESIGNS. BY THE NEW YORK DESIGNING COMPANY.

ONE OF A SERIES OF DECORATIVE SCHEMES. BY THE NEW YORK DESIGNING COMPANY.

CHINA dinner cards are little plaques of ware about two inches in diameter, with a raised plain space across the centre for the name. They are seen in Delft and Dresden decorations.

QUITE an excellent idea is a new figure group in white china, being both candelabra and flower-stand combined. In the centre is a boy and on each side a cornucopia of flowers; across the top is a two-branched candelabra fitted with candles and ornamental shades; a prettier model it would be difficult to imagine.